

NEWS OF MILLERSBURG

The second day of the District Conference of the M. E. Church, South, of the Frankfort district was called to order Wednesday morning with Presiding Elder Southgate in the chair. After the devotional exercises several committees were appointed when the Epworth League work was taken up. The reports of all the leagues were read, all showing a decided increase over last year.

The reports gave rise to a short discussion between Rev. Alex Redd and Dr. C. C. Fisher as to which was doing the most good for the church, the Sunday-school or the Epworth League. Dr. Fisher took the position that the league was. Rev. B. C. Horton, of Mt. Sterling, delivered an interesting address on the Mission work of the State.

Rev. J. W. Crates, of Carrollton, preached an interesting sermon. The work of tithing was taken up, discussed at some length and was followed by spiritual baptism, however the greater part of the afternoon session was spent in missionary work, the principle address being delivered by Mr. Henry Powers, of Paris. At night Rev. J. S. Sims, of Paris, preached a most excellent sermon.

The members have already received due notice of the same and Sunday, June 15, is the last date for it. Rev. Lightfoot desires to be understood as being in favor of the Y. M. C. ## MATRIMONIAL NOTES

FISHER—HOUGH.

County Clerk Pearce Paton Tuesday issued a marriage license to Mr. Charles Hough and Miss Maude Fisher, both of Bourbon county.

KENNEDY—KENNEDY.

The marriage of Miss Sarah Talbott Kennedy, of Lexington, to Mr. Jesse Pithian Kennedy, of that city, formerly of Paris, was solemnized at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. J. F. Kennedy, in Lexington, Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. W. Porter.

The home was lovely with decorations of palms, ferns, smilax and trailing vines, quantities of snow balls and roses.

In the drawing room before the mantel an altar was arranged with pyramided plants, great bouquets of snow balls and cathedral candles on tall pedestals at each end. As the guests assembled, Miss Mattie Lee Featherston played a beautiful program, Lohengrin's Bridal Chorus sounding joyfully for the bridal procession, which came slowly from the door at the rear of the hall into the drawing room. First was the lovely bride's maid, Miss Mary Porter, who was lovely in pink chiffon carrying a graceful bouquet of white sweet peas. The charming maid of honor, Miss Elizabeth Featherston preceded the bride. She was beautifully gowned in white chiffon and lace, with pink trimmings and carried pink sweet peas. The charming young bride entered with her brother, Mr. Felix Kennedy, who gave her in marriage. As they approached the altar the bridegroom and his best man, Mr. Marshall Breeze, of Cincinnati, came from the dining room and the couple joined for the beautiful ceremony.

The bride was a charming figure in an exquisite gown of shadow lace over chiffon and net. She wore an aigrette in her hair and carried a shower of bride's roses and lilies of the valley.

After the prayer, Mendelssohn's wedding march sounded and congratulations were then showered upon the happy couple. A little later they left on the afternoon train for a trip East and on their return will make their home with the bride's mother.

Only kinsmen and most intimate friends were present for the ceremony and all joined in drinking to the health and happiness of the attractive young couple. The bride is the only daughter of the home. She is pretty and attractive and a favorite socially with all who know her. Mr. Kennedy, formerly of Paris, has been making Lexington his home for sometime and is in business with Mr. Stamler, the architect. He is a nephew of Dr. F. P. Campbell, of this city.

They were remembered with many beautiful gifts, one of the most beautiful and appreciated, being a collection of over a hundred pieces of exquisite crochet and drawn work, done by the bridegroom's mother, the late Mrs. Kennedy and given to him to be presented as her gift to his bride. Mrs. Kennedy was handsome in a beautiful gown of white voile and lace. She was assisted in receiving by Miss
